Benefits of Vibrational Lymphatic Therapy For All Users

Vibrational Lymphatic therapy improves the ENTIRE circulation of the body. By allowing your body to RELEASE toxins and accumulated fluid and proteins between the cells, healthy balance is restored. A series of treatments over time is highly recommended. With a home unit, you can optimize your time and investment in good health.

Regular use improves your lymphatic fluid flow and accelerates detoxification of your tissues. This leads to more vitality, relief of aches and pains, aids with common ailments such as sinus, flu, colds, chronic dis-ease support, faster healing from surgeries, injuries and sports, and allows for less edema, fibrotic conditions, and swelling from various causes. Finally, since the formation of collagen and its regeneration is important to your skin, regular use provides tighter skin, fewer wrinkles, and a vibrant complexion.

Some issues you can address:

Pain and General Conditions: Breast lumps, inflammation due to muscular trauma, lymphedema, chronic pain, allergy & sinus symptoms, headaches, hormone imbalance and female conditions, men's health, arthritis, general inflammation states that lead to dis-ease, digestive and bowel problems, post dental procedures, fibromyalgia, general toxicity, and fatigue syndromes (chronic).

Stress Relief: Provides a feeling of relaxation, emotional balance, a sense of well-being, and increased energy.

Esthetics: Cosmetic enhancement through the reduction of fluid deposits in the face, healthier skin, supporting all cellulite reduction therapies, & post-procedures such laser resurfacing, plastic surgery, etc. Lymphatic therapy can minimize scars and the formation of new scar tissue by stimulating the development of healthy collagen.

Obesity: Obesity can be helped with improved lymphatic flow. When congestion is relieved, diet and exercise programs are far more effective. Not a direct weight loss modality, though it removes puffiness around the face, under the jaw, and areas of the hips, buttocks, and belly can improve once stagnant lymph fluid moves out. Supports other weigh loss efforts and cellulite reduction therapies. Also, sugar follows water - so it can allow for better glucose metabolism.

Sports Medicine: For injury rehabilitation & injuries in general. Use before and after athletics to increase performance and decrease muscle and tendon strain/pain by reducing lactic acid. Augments other therapeutic technology such as phototherapy devices - low level laser or LED technology, magnetic therapy, etc. when treatments are preceded by this lymphatic therapy. (see Arcturus' line of light & magnetic therapy options)

Veterinary Applications: Can be used for Companion Animals for many of the same conditions as in humans: pain, injury, malaise, ageing, dis-eases. In equines it can be used for the reduction of post performance stress/strain and healing of injury, and to assist with inflammation issues.

Please Note: The Lymphstar Essence™ is used as an ADJUNCT to facial and body lymphatic massage and is used by many different holistic care, massage and esthetic professionals as well as home users for skin care, relaxation, and wellness.

LYMPHEDEMA: We make no specific claims for the Lymphstar Essence™ as a specific 'treatment' for lymphedema, a medical condition. Though many people have accessed the therapy to see if it works for them and we recommend they see one of our therapists before purchasing. Results are generally very good. Professional guidance is recommended.

Medical research is being conducted on the treatment of this condition. Professional models are under FDA approval for this use. Consult with your health care practitioner before using the Lymphstar Essence™ if you have any serious medical condition.

How Does the Lymphstar Essence™ Work?

The Lymphstar Essence™ is a therapeutic, vibrational energy massage instrument with a unique combination of energetic modalities. They are: 1) physical vibration with sonic, or acoustic, waves, 2) an electro-static field; and 3) electro-pressure created by the use of multiple treatment points. All of these emissions are extremely low in energy so they are gentle and safe but highly effective. Subtle energies are called “vibrational energy,” because they harmonize with the vibrations (oscillations or the frequencies) of cells and body systems. The lymphatic system, due to its inherent pulsations of nerves, fine muscles, and pressures, tunes into and respond beautifully to this kind of energy.

This exceptional technology has been tested successfully in massage therapy, Lymphedema studies, as well as by physical therapists, lymphatic therapists, and many others. Please request scientific studies on our technology (Croley) and more technical background from our office. Read the information at the end of our document called “Lymphstar FAQ” on the product pages on our website.
